Blaise Lager- My favorite part of 4-H is the fair.

Dominic Mishler - 4-H is fun as there are so many activities like 4-H camp, baking, arts, and geology. I like to do community service, and this is a way to do that.

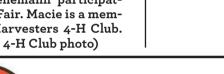

Margaret Mary Lager - I like working on projects and submitting them in the fair. I liked learning how to sew.

Killian Lager - I liked showing my sheep. To show my sheep I had to train it by working with it every day. I'd take it on walks to tone its muscles...I ran it up and down hills and got to feed it treats.

Lettie Rumback- I liked doing food and nutrition and learning new recipes. I liked training my pig with the pig stick. 4-H is fun and others should join.

Roch Lager -With 4-H I have learned public speaking and speaking confidently.

Lucy Anne Lager - We do a lot of community service, and it is fun and a great way to give back. 4-H is a good life skills experience.

SCCF is proud to welcome two new childcare providers, Jordan Ewers of The Jungle Gym and Caitlin Schwagerl of Kingdom Kiddos, who will soon open their businesses within the new facility. Both daycare businesses are expected to be operational before the end of the year.

SCCF invites the public to celebrate this achievement alongside contributors, funders, coalition members, and partners.

In addition to this milestone event, SCCF is gearing up for 2024 November Match Month, an annual fundraising campaign with the potential to significantly amplify local donations. Thanks to the generosity of the Dane G. Hansen Foundation and the Patterson Family Foundation, donations made during November will be matched more than two-fold. SCCF aims to raise $70,000 locally, which will be matched by $170,000 ($100,000 from the Hansen Foundation and $70,000 from the Patterson Family Foundation), bringing the total potential campaign amount to $240,000.

Ticket details and sales will be announced and opened up soon. Check the Foundation's events webpage mentioned above for more information.

The Sheridan County recycling program has bins set up in Selden. They are located up at the old State shop building along the highway on the east side of town. There is a pickup box with a wire cage that is for chemical jugs only. There is a green trailer with several bins set up on it and each bin is for a different item - such as cans, glass, newspapers, magazines, plastics etc. We ask that you put the right item in the right bins. There is a white enclosed trailer that is for cardboard. Please use the side door to put your cardboard in. Also, please break down your cardboard so there is room for lots more. If we recycle as much stuff as we can that will make our landfill last longer. As we all know---our tax dollars are what it takes to dig a new pit at the landfill.

Sinclair Creek Gifts in Selden is having a big 40% off sale. Her store will be closing, and all items are priced to sell. Stop by Sinclair Creek Gifts and take advantage while you can.

Just a reminder there is road construction on Highway 9 from the beginning just south of Dresden for several miles. Be prepared to stop and wait on a pilot car.

MS Dogs Win Close Game Over Northern Valley

By Judy Rogers

The Golden Plains Middle School football team won a close game 39-34 over the Northern Valley Huskies in Rexford on September 26. "Once we found the right gap that we needed to shoot, everything started going according to plan," said Parker Vahling who ran in three touchdowns in the game. "Then we could get the sacks in the back.

The Bulldogs struck first with a touchdown run by Parker Vahling. A pass from Ruxin Arnberger to Brandon Karnes gave the Dogs the extra point and a 7-0 lead early in the first. Koen Schaben kicked back to the Huskies who moved the ball but with tackles by Vahling and Kasch Buehler, they turned the ball over just shy of the first down.

The Dogs moved the ball with a good run and several successful passes from Arnberger to Buehler and Schaben. Arnberger connected with Buehler for a second Bulldog touchdown. The extra point run was stopped, and the Dogs were up 13-0. The Huskies answered with a touchdown of their own, but it was called back due to a penalty. They repeated the score, this time without any flags, and ran in the extra point to close the gap to 13-7 at the end of the first.

The Bulldogs opened the second with a first down but turned the ball over to the Huskies. The Huskies scored a second time midway through the quarter. Buehler tackled the runner of the PAT attempt, and the game was tied up at 13.

The Dogs had trouble moving the ball back on offense due to pressure from the Huskies. Vahling broke through for a 50-yard touchdown run and put in the PAT to put the Dogs back on top 20-13. The Huskies fumbled on the kick return and Schaben recovered for the Bulldogs. The Huskies responded with a pass interception, but the Dogs defense stopped them just short of their goal before the Huskies finished in the end zone and ran in the PAT to tie the game up at 20 at the half.

The Huskies scored again early in the third to gain their first lead of the game 27-20. The teams traded possessions throughout much of the quarter. Arnberger again connected with Schaben and Vahling before Vahling crossed the goal line again. The PAT was stopped by the Huskies, but the Dogs closed the gap to 26-27 at the end of the third.

Lady Bulldogs Set PR's at Oberlin

The Bulldogs quickly regained the lead with a touchdown by Buehler at the start of the fourth. Vahling ran in the extra point with a 33-27 Bulldog lead. Midway through the fourth, the Huskies pulled back ahead 34-33. With just 8 seconds remaining in the game, Arnberger connected with Buehler once again for a final score and the win 39-34. "That last touchdown for the win was definitely and highlight!" continued Vahling.

The Bulldogs will play at home again on October 3 as they host Weskan. "Our goal is to get better on defense and to know all our plays," added Vahling.

Thirty-five WHS students and their sponsors attended the live stage performance of the Broadway musical "Dear Evan Hansen" on Monday evening, September 30, at the Beach Schmidt Performing Arts Center in Hays.

The students began the night with a burger bar in a Thirsty's banquet room. It was a popular choice and was organized by senior Treyton Barnett as part of a FACS class project. FACS also helped support the dinner by hosting a peach canning fundraiser in September.

Sophomore Deighton Herl stated, "I enjoyed the overall experience and if something like this came up again then I would probably go again."

Freshman Emma Thomas agreed, saying, "I really liked the overall experience. If I had the chance to go again I would because I really enjoyed the musical. I had a fun time with my friends as well. I think this was a good school trip.

Emily Hrabe, freshman added, "I thought it was nice sitting down with our classmates and getting to talk with each other. We were not rushed at all to finish eating, and I appreciate the people that helped fund the food for us to eat."

WHS students and faculty thank GCDC and the Gove County Endowment Foundation for their financial support to make this trip possible.

Senator Marshall Slams FEMA for Putting Illegal Aliens Before American Citizens Devastated by Hurricane Helene

The Harris-Biden Administration has repeatedly demonstrated that they do not prioritize the safety of Americans, from their FEMA fiasco with Hurricane Helene to allowing thousands of convicted criminals to enter the United States across our southern border.

Kamala Harris and Joe Biden grossly mismanaged federal funds through FEMA, spending millions in disaster funding to house illegal immigrants. I joined Mornings with Maria on Fox Business to discuss the Harris-Biden Administration's disastrous Hurricane Helene response and criminals pouring across the southern border because of Border Czar Kamala Harris' open borders agenda.

Senator Marshall Fights to Keep Dangerous Criminals from Illegally Entering United States

A shocking report revealed that tens of thousands of illegal immigrants with sexual assault and murder convictions are loose on the streets across the United States. Border Czar Kamala Harris's open borders agenda has flooded the United States with these violent criminals, putting American citizens in harm's way. No illegal aliens convicted of sexual violence should be allowed to live in our great nation, let alone have the opportunity to enter in the first place.

Americans deserve to be SAFE in their communities. I am proud to join Senator Joni Ernst (R-IA) in introducing the Better Enforcement of Grievous Offenses by UnNaturalized Emigrants (BE GONE) Act, which will allow the United States to deport sex offenders currently in the country and block those seeking to enter. This legislation will ensure that predators and criminals are

One Year Later: The U.S. Still Stands with Israel

On this first anniversary of Hamas' terrorist attack against Israel, we remember the 1,200 innocent lives murdered, including 40 Americans. This unprovoked assault had no justification, and we support Israel in its ongoing efforts to prevent this from happening again. We also remember our fellow citizens who are held hostage by Hamas alongside nearly 100 others awaiting their freedom. All efforts must be made to bring them home alive.

This past year has also resulted in enormous suffering among innocent Palestinians and Lebanese as terrorists who control Gaza and Lebanon are allowing mass civilian casualties as Hamas and Hezbollah use schools, hospitals and apartment buildings for protection. I am deeply concerned about the humanitarian situation in Gaza and implore the timely passage of food and medicine into the territory.

As Israel continues to defend itself against terrorists including Hamas, Hezbollah and Houthis – all backed by Iran, which has also attacked Israel twice in the last year – this day is a reminder that these enemies of Israel also pose direct threats to Americans in the Middle East and around the world. Shortly after the attack, I traveled to Israel and met with Prime Minister Netanyahu and other Israeli leaders to show the United States' support of our ally. The United States must be consistent in its support for Israel and work to achieve an enduring peace which safeguards the Jewish state's security and lasting existence and brings long-term peace in the Middle East.

Improving Benefits for Veterans

The Senate recently passed legislation I introduced with Sen. Jon Tester (D-Mont.) to make certain the rate of disability compensation and other financial benefits for veterans and military survivors from the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) keeps pace with rising costs. The Veterans' Compensation Cost-of-Living Adjustment (COLA) Act will increase certain VA benefits including disability compensation, clothing allowances and dependency and indemnity compensation for surviving spouses and children to reflect increases in the cost of living. We have a responsibility to provide care and support for our nation's veterans and their families, especially those who rely on VA for essential financial support. I am thankful for my colleagues' support of our nation's veterans, and I look forward to the President signing this legislation into law.

Calling on Support for our Farmers

I joined KSN to discuss the importance of providing immediate and long-term support for our farmers and ranchers. With the current Farm Bill set to expire, Congress has the option to provide an extension, pass a new Farm Bill or let the bill expire. If we had enough bipartisan cooperation now, we wouldn't have to worry about what might happen. The problem is our farmers don't have that time to wait and see, so Congress must act now to prevent our farmers from struggling even more.

KDA and KDHE Remind Kansans to Vaccinate Animals Against Rabies

Manhattan - The Kansas Department of Agriculture and the Kansas Department of Health and Environment together advise Kansans to be alert to the human health risk caused by unvaccinated animals, following a second detection of rabies in a cat in the last two weeks. The two cases were in Jewell County and Harvey County, and both involved outdoor cats which exposed multiple humans and other cats. The known human exposures have started rabies post-exposure prophylaxis, a series of five vaccinations to prevent rabies in humans. Rabies is a viral disease transmitted by the bite or scratch from a rabid animal. There have been six positive cases of rabies in cats this year, as well as several cases in wildlife. Both of the cases this month were in unvaccinated outdoor barn cats. "Rabies is not unusual in the wildlife population, and unfortunately this often means domestic animals that roam freely can be exposed to the virus," said Animal Health Commissioner Justin Smith. "It is vital to vaccinate domestic animals against rabies, especially animals that interact with humans, because humans can be infected. Vaccinating pets and livestock against the virus protects both animal health and human health." Even if an animal is kept indoors, ensuring their vaccination against the virus is up-to-date serves as an important barrier if they are ever exposed to a wild or stray animal that could be carrying the disease. Those who have barn cats should have them vaccinated against rabies. Many Kansas cities and counties have vaccination requirements; know what is required in your community and contact your veterinarian for more information about rabies vaccination. Rabies attacks the brain and spinal cord and can take several weeks to months for symptoms to appear, but early treatment after an exposure can prevent rabies in both humans and pets that are up to date on vaccinations. The vaccination is highly effective. If you notice unusual behavior in your animal, or you think your animal may have had contact with rabid wildlife, it is important to immediately contact your veterinarian to determine the next steps to take. If you are a veterinarian, remember to always consider rabies as a potential diagnosis for neurologic animals. In Kansas, rabies is a reportable disease which requires a veterinarian to report a positive rabies test to the KDA Division of Animal Health. In order to prevent the spread of rabies, people should teach children to be cautious around outdoor animals, wild or domestic, even if they look to be friendly; wash a wound from an animal encounter thoroughly with soap and water and get medical attention immediately; keep pet vaccinations current; and monitor pets when outside. If you have concerns about rabies, please visit www.kdhe. ks.gov/1497/Rabies or call the KDHE Epidemiology Hotline at 877-427-7317.

Task Force 2 for Swift Water Search and Rescue Deployed to Florida

Topeka – Governor Laura Kelly announced today that the Kansas Division of Emergency Management received another Emergency Management Assistance Compact request from Florida for a swift water search and rescue task force in preparation for Hurricane Milton's arrival. Working with the Office of the State Fire Marshal, Kansas Task Force 2 was deployed last night to Florida.

"Kansas is once again sending assistance to Florida due to another large and powerful hurricane landing this week in the Gulf Coast," Governor Laura Kelly said. "We're committed to mobilizing resources and personnel to provide immediate support to those affected by Hurricane Milton."

"The personnel responding to Florida to assist with Hurricane Milton have trained for this kind of disaster response," Mark Engholm, Kansas Fire Marshal, said. "They are committed to providing professional search and rescue support to those in need. Kansas can be proud of our men and women who have chosen to deploy."

Kansas Task Force 2 consists of personnel from the Office of the State Fire Marshal, Chanute Fire Department, Cherryvale Fire-Rescue, Johnson County Med-Act, Manhattan Fire Department, Neodesha Fire Department, Salina Fire Department, Shawnee Kansas Fire Department, and Wichita Fire Department.

Their objectives will be to search for and rescue individuals, provide basic life support medical care, transport humans and animals to the nearest location for secondary air or land transport, provide shore-based and boat-based water rescue, provide animal rescues, and support helicopter and urban search and rescue in water environments.

Fighting for a Nation That's Safe

Elected officials have the duty to protect the American people. Under the Biden-Harris Administration's failed leadership, our national security has been weakened. From our wide-open southern borders to proposed policies that would endanger family farms across Kansas, the Biden-Harris Administration has taken America backwards. As part of my Commitment to the Big First, I am fighting to:

• End the humanitarian and fentanyl crisis at our southern border

Support our military troops and law enforcement officers
 Stand strong as the world leaders in democracy and freedom

House Republicans are working to get America back on track. I will continue supporting efforts to ensure the safety of all Americans and will keep holding our federal government accountable.

Addressing the Nation: A Time for Choosing

When Kansans think of the future they want for their children, they want a nation with a strong economy, secure borders, and a land of opportunity. I spoke on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives about the consequences that the November election will have on that future.

In the coming weeks, Americans will head to the polls, and we'll have a choice before us. We can vote for a candidate that has told us what she wants to do to address her failing policies, or we can vote for a candidate who has shown us what his policies can do to strengthen the nation. I know what choice I will make.

Farm Bill Update

On Monday, the Farm Bill, which provides crucial support for Kansas agriculture, expired. While an extension remains in place through the end of this year, it is extremely disappointing the Senate could not come to a long-term agreement.

We still have not seen any effort by Democrat leadership or this White House to prioritize a Farm Bill. My Republican colleagues and I have put in the work. Senate Republicans released a framework that puts FARM back in the Farm Bill after years of one-sided priorities from the Harris-Biden Administration. The Republican Framework would bolster crop insurance, increase commodities reference prices, and preserve record-high SNAP benefits for hungry families.

I am frustrated but determined to secure a good deal for farmers, ranchers, and rural America. I know farm country is hurting right now, but we have to get this bill right and we need our colleagues across the aisle to commit to putting FARM back in the Farm Bill before we can get that done. We will get there.

The Big First District is the number one beef producing congressional district in the country. We also discussed the need for fewer unfunded, mandated rules from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

What You Can Control

By Jackie Mundt, Pratt County farmer and rancher Our local Oktoberfest celebration took place a few weeks ago. This event is one of my favorite, and one of my biggest volunteer commitments. Everyone on the planning committee puts in a lot of time and effort with the sole purpose of raising money to better our community, and we have a great time doing it.

We have had great weather over the years for the event and bad weather was bound to hit us at some point; this year it hit us hard. For the 10 days leading up to Oktoberfest, a bit of anxiety built as we watch rain dance in and out of the weather forecast. We explored options for moving the event but found that wouldn't work with some of our licensing. We decided to move forward and hope for the best.

About an hour before the event's start time law enforcement showed up to let us know straight-line winds of 60-plus miles per hour were headed our way. Before the squad car left the park, huge drops of rain were hitting us and the wind came up on us like a freight train.

Our crew rushed into action trying to salvage decorations and other light objects. Then some of our smaller tailgating size tents for tickets and the stage started to bend and break. We dashed through the rain to help the band get instruments loaded back in their vehicle to avoid further damage.

When there was no more that could be done, we all took shelter under our only sturdy tent and waited out the rest of that downpour watching cascades of rain creating rivers and lakes throughout the park. It was clear the event would not be what we had hoped. It would have been easy to call the event off and admit defeat at this point.

However, the Oktoberfest committee has a very clear understanding that we make our community by raising money AND hosting a fun community event. We went into crisis management mode and talked through a lot of options for salvaging the event before settling on a plan.

When the first and high winds stopped, we sent out word to the community the event would look different, but it would still happen. We invited people to join us for some fun in the rain. Amazingly, without a band or most of our activities we still had almost 300 people, which is a little less than half of our normal crowd, show up to raise a glass, grab dinner and join in an unforgettable Oktoberfest. We are so grateful that people showed up in less-than-ideal circumstances and make the best of a tough night. Our misfortune was fairly small with everything happening in the world. People in western North Carolina are not worrying about the loss of their crops, property and roads, they are working to save their neighbors and help those in need. People with terminal illnesses are fighting for their lives while securing for the needs of their loved ones. People with big and small problems are finding ways to make their life and those around them better. Life is full of unpredictable and often unpleasant circumstances. The only thing we can truly control is our reaction. You can choose to work toward solutions instead of focusing on everything that is going wrong. You can choose kindness, grace, forgiveness and optimism.

as an area that has limited access to plentiful, affordable and/or nutritious food. An example would be a local gas station that offers food but very little of what they offer is nutritious.

"As we work with farmers, ranchers and growers in Kansas, we see the opportunity to connect those people who grow healthy food to the local grocery stores," Stout says. "That's not easy because grocery stores need dependable quantities and deliveries of the produce they can purchase at wholesale prices."

Stout shared that through work SKF and KFB are doing in Sumner County with the Border Queen Harvest Hub (BQHH), they're already seeing growth.

"Producers have come together to open their own storefronts where they sell on consignment," she says. "In our Border Queen Harvest Hub we've seen Ellis Island open in Belle Plaine and Hagar Acres in Caldwell. These stores offer fresh, nutritious and locally grown food to consumers."

Stout also shared some innovative ideas that were surfaced at the conference.

"I learned about one 24-hour grocery store where customers pay an annual membership fee of $75 and were given a key-code access to the store. You paid on the honor system, but there were security cameras and since each customer has a unique code, it's easier to know who is in the store and at what times."

She shared a benefit of this set up is there are no labor costs because the farmers stock the stores when they have the product and staff aren't needed to manage cash registers.

This model can be a win-win for customers and growers.

"Many consumers want a farmers market that is open every day but instead only have access to a big-box store or a gas station," Stout says. "Farmers are traditionally paid pennies on the dollar for their products, so it becomes a battle of offering high-quality food at an affordable price that consumers can afford, and farmers can make a living on."

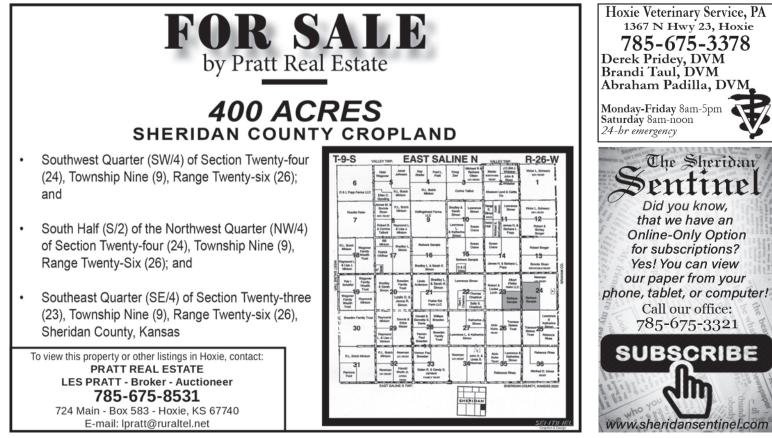

As KFB and SKF work to support and prosper rural communities across our state, we place high priority on providing solutions
